

- Read Aloud Rhymes for the Very Young, Jack Prelutsky
- Hickory Dickory Dock and Other Nursery Rhymes, Carl Jones
- Over in the Meadow, Ezra Jack Keats

Predictable/Repetitive Books

In these books, a word or phrase is repeated throughout the book forming a pattern. Children quickly recognize the patterns and are able to read along.

- Brown Bear, Brown Bear, What Do You See? Bill Martin, Jr.
- Are You My Mother? P. D. Eastman

Picture Books and Wordless Books

Picture books have easy to understand stories and can include contemporary stories and traditional literature.

Wordless books encourage language development as children create their own stories using the pictures.

- If You Give a Mouse a Cookie, Laura Numeroff
- The Snowy Day, Ezra Jack Keats
- The Mitten, Jan Brett
- Good Dog, Carl A. Day
- School, E. McCaully

Additional Information

Additional information about Georgia's Pre-K Program is available through your Pre-K provider.

Information is also available through the world-wide web at the following address:

www.decal.state.ga.us.

In addition to specific programmatic information, such as the Pre-K Providers' Operating Guidelines and site listings, you will find a number of Best Practices lessons you may use to help your child learn at home what they are learning in Pre-K.

